HEIST

a poker inspired ttrpg
about robbing casinos

RULE BOOK

Requires:
2-4 Players (thieves), 1 GM (the house),
1 Deck of Cards, & Poker Chips

A game by J. Marcos Avina | warcos.net

GAME PLAY

The game takes place over 3 Blinds. Each Blind is a chapter in the narrative and consists of 3 scenes.

Thieves start the game with 10 chips, these represent their "luck". During each scene they will push their luck to achieve their goals by betting chips. The amount of chips bet will determine the significance of their moves.

Success and failure of a given move is determined by a poker hand that thieves will play against the house. Winning the hand wins them double their bet, loosing the hand looses them their entire bet.

Once a thief runs out of chips, they are gone from the narrative. The game ends when all thieves are taken out or when the thieves beat the final scene in the third Blind.

OTHER RULES

The “flop” is a set of cards the house reveals from their hand by placing on the table face up

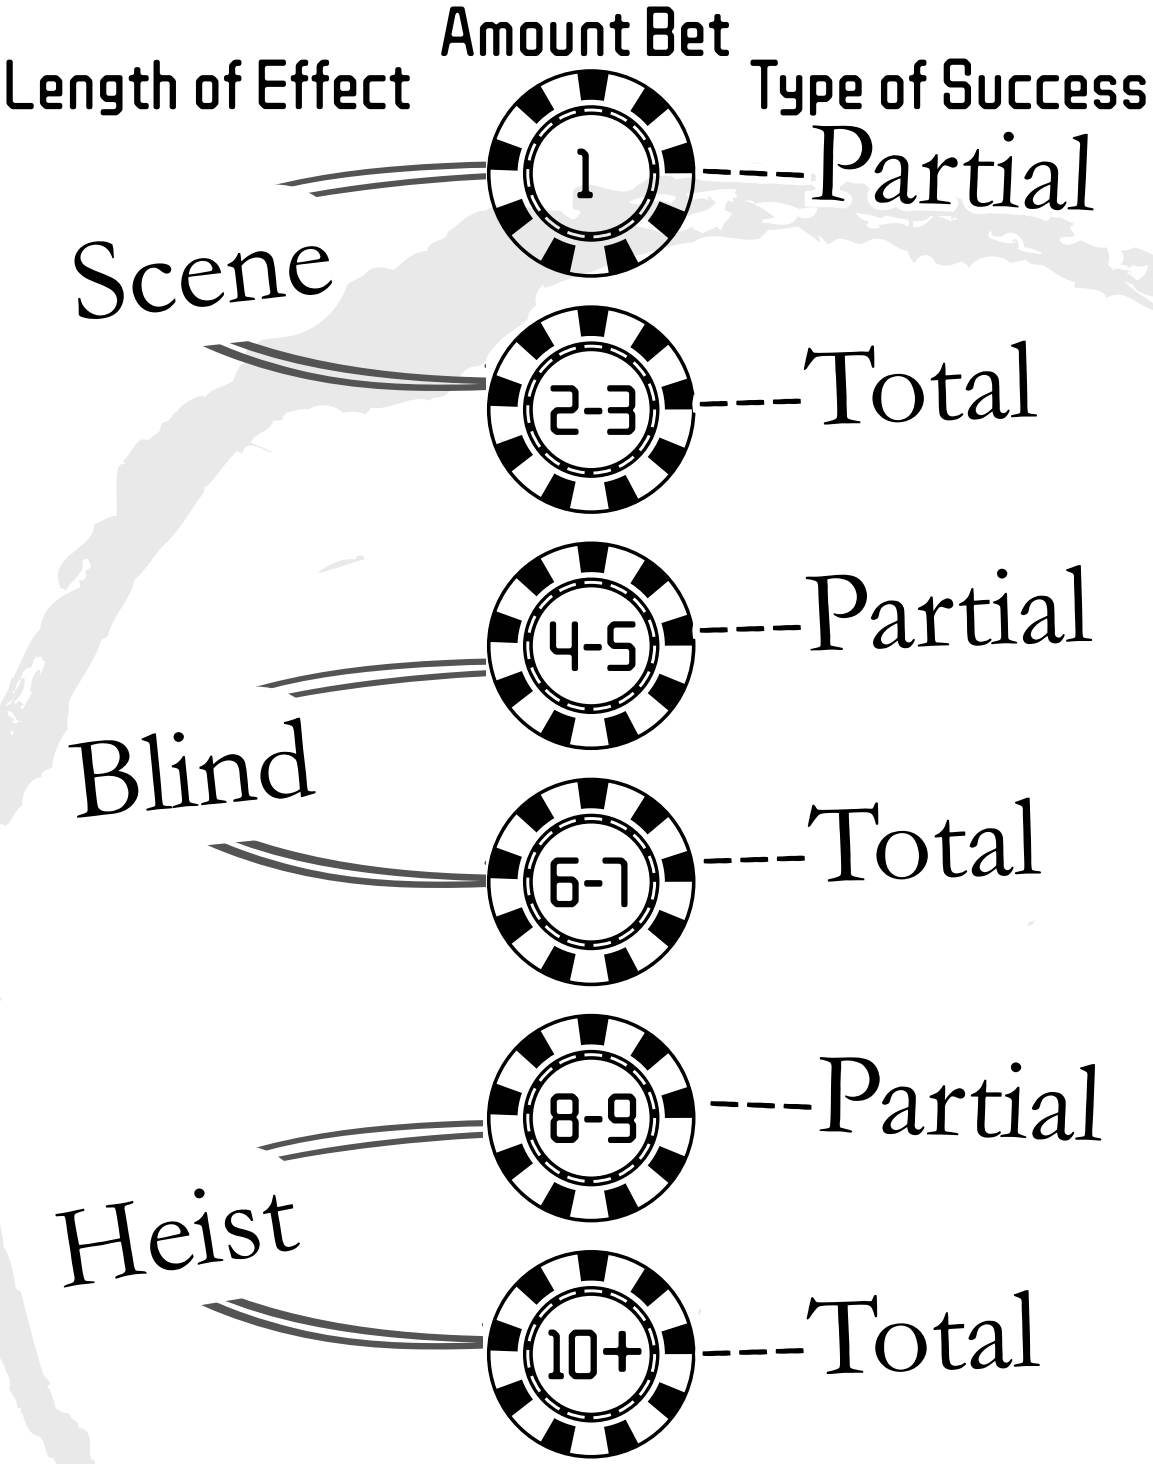

Thieves build poker hands from 8 cards. Moves are used to manipulate the cards into better hands

Thieves make bets to “push their luck” the higher the bet, the more narrative effect their moves will have.

Basic moves can be made by anyone, Archetype moves are exclusive to your chosen archetype

Thief hands are compared to House Hands. If a Thief wins, they win TWICE their bet. If they loose, they loose the WHOLE bet.

BETTING CHIPS

Partial success comes at a narrative cost determined by the GM
